Our Scholarship Recipients

By Steve Urbaniak '77

The Fraser High School 25+ Alumni Club has given eager and deserving seniors an opportunity to continue their studies at a college or university of their choice with a helping hand to defer the expenses of higher education. This is our 15th year of scholarships.

As in the years past, the FHS 25+ Alumni Club will endow two graduates with a scholarship.

It is my pleasure to announce the first of our scholarship recipients for 2009 - Zachary Holloway.

Zachary is the son of John Holloway and Karen Matson Holloway, both from the Class of 1991. Zachary spent his years at FHS participating in National Honor Society, swimming and peer tutoring. He was the VFW's Voice of Democracy speech winner.

He has volunteered at McRest and Compassion Pregnancy Center, worked at Subway and Tim Horton's Restaurant, and was captain of the swimming team. His scholarship application essay was heartfelt, showing integrity, determination, and pride in what he has done and, more importantly, who he is, and what he stands for.

He plans on attending Wayne State University with an anticipated major of Business or Engineering.

Congratulations, Zachary.

The second scholarship goes to Kaitlyn Kowal. Kaitlyn is the daughter of Kurt Kowal, from the Class of 1979, and Paula 'Bialecki' Kowal, from the Class of 1980.

Kaitlyn has spent her time at Fraser participating in the Interact Club, soccer, and Link Crew. She has taken leadership classes, been on the Student Council, and participated in Powderpuff Football. She has also helped tutor others.

She's worked at Grosseil Tool, and at Moo Moo's Vegetarian Cuisine. She has been a volunteer at the Capuchin Soup Kitchen, the Lions Club, and American House Senior Living.

Her essay focuses on Kaitlyn's belief in balance -- balancing honors classes, sports, her job, and her life. Hard work is indeed something to encourage us all to meet our goals. This is not an easy task. Kaitlyn has met all those goals.

And this scholarship honor is something to savor, indeed. In 2009, she'll be attending Michigan State University College of Business.

Well done, Kaitlyn.

Repicky Retires

Rick Repicky, Fraser Public Schools superintendent for the last eight years, has decided to retire. Calling it quits is never easy, but after having quite a long list of accomplishments and a number of years of service, it becomes justified and a lot easier.

Back in 1976, the district was in need of teachers to fill the bulging junior highs and high school. It was then that a young Rick Repicky was offered a job as a science teacher at the old Kennedy Junior High. It was an older building with some younger teachers on staff. He was there for four years when he was transferred to Richards.

Richards had some younger teachers and some who had been there quite some time. The spider-shaped building was always a challenge for maneuverability, though. Repicky taught social studies here for three years.

With the district maxing out its subdivision development at that time and the drop in the birth rate, Fraser was forced to close schools. It closed two elementaries (Einstein in 1982 and Frost in 1984), and one of the junior highs, transferring a portion of the freshmen to the high school.

Though there were some retirements, many teachers had to be laid off. With seven years of seniority, Repicky was furloughed. There were teachers going on sabbatical and maternity leave, which extended his teaching time, but eventually the cutbacks became a more permanent thing. Repicky left the district and sought opportunities elsewhere.

Repicky had been a hockey coach ('80-'83) at Fraser, & in 1983 won a state championship. While he was laid off, from Fraser, he taught in Bloomfield Hills.

Back in Fraser, some long-term teachers were retiring, opening up positions again. Don Lusk, retired, giving Ed Grewe the chance at Athletic Director. Then John Brockschmidt retired, Mr. Eichbrecht moved up and Grewe became the assistant principal at the junior high, opening the athletic director job. Repicky had coaching experience and seemed the best fit. In 1987 Repicky returned to Fraser after a four-year absence. (Cont'd pg 4)

He held the athletic director position for nine years when he took over as one of the assistant principals at Fraser High for a year.

When Norm Marvaso left as principal in 1997, Repicky applied and was chosen. He was the best fit here too.

There were challenges here as many retirements were occurring and new staff was being hired by the dozens. Repicky was receptive to his old friends at FHS and the newcomers. Open enrollment began and the class sizes were getting a bit larger. All the while, Fraser was out in front in county MEAP scores. He performed well for five years as FHS head honcho.

Fraser Public Schools was sorry to see Dr. Gary Matsche leave as superintendent in 2002. He had led the district through much of the 80's, all the 90's and into the new millennium. It would be hard to replace him. But Repicky put in for this challenge, and was given the highest administrative position in the district.

He has been at the helm for eight years, diligently luring talent to the district, keeping our curriculum on top, overseeing construction projects for our schools and being involved in nurturing all the new faces, both faculty and students. He has done well. It is now time to pass the baton to Dr. Dave Richards.

Also coaching hockey for Detroit Catholic Central, in 2009, he was inducted into the Macomb County Coaches Hall of Fame.

Education has always been important in the Repicky family. Rick Repicky, Jr. is a social studies teacher at Sterling Heights High School, in the Warren Consolidated district.

What does he plan to do after 31 years with Fraser, plus his stints at the Clarenceville and Farmington School Districts? Maybe he doesn't have that quite figured out yet, but when he's ready, he'll let us know.

Condolences

Our condolences to the family of our picnic photographer Carl Romano, and father of numerous alumni from 1968 through 1984, who passed away in March of this year.

Murder Mystery Writer - Bob Moats '67

Like Dale Carnegie stated in his popular book, "How to Win Friends and Influence People," ...when life deals you a bunch of lemons, make lemonade.

This is exactly what Fraser High alumnus, Bob Moats '67 did. With an absence of a number of years from Macomb County, Moats returned in 2001, but in 2003 moved to Las Vegas, then turned around in 2004 to return to Fraser to help his mother tend to his father, who had serious health problems and eventually died. When he became unemployed in 2009, he had to find something to do.

"I've been writing poems and short stories for years," he said. Writing has always been a passion. "I've always wanted to write a murder mystery." With eight novels in the can in less than a year's time, you could say his hobby has blossomed.

First there was 'Classmate Murders', followed by 'Vegas Showgirl Murders', 'Dominatrix Murders', 'Mistress Murders', 'Bridezilla Murders', 'Magic Murders', 'Strip Club Murders', and 'Made-For-TV Murders'.

All of the books highlight his senior citizen mystery solver, Jim Richards, who fights crime at 61 years old. "All the guys you see being portrayed in the movies and on TV these days are good-looking, handsome hunks. I'm tired of it. I'm a senior citizen, so I decided to write what I know."

All of the mysteries share an aspect of Moats' personal life, whether it be certain thoroughfares in Macomb County or the time he spent living in Las Vegas. Moats has also lived in Port Huron and in Frankfort, near Traverse City.

When asked about his favorite, Moats began with "They're all my favorites, however I do like the action and storyline of 'Bridezilla Murders'."

A lot of his personal life is used as background for the character. "The first paragraph of the first book reflected a lot of what was happening in my life at the time," said Moats.

In addition to novels, Moats has also written a play and a novella entitled, 'Crystal Prison of Kyr'. The play is a three-act comedy named 'Happily Ever After', which was performed in a dinner theater in Detroit, in 1985, and had 16 sold-out shows.

He is hoping to get his novels published, but is self-publishing for now. Paperbacks and information about the books are available online at <http://murdernovels.com>. You can buy a paperback copy or see a preview on the site which allows you to view the first 10 chapters. Digital copies are available for Kindle readers at www.amazon.com.

"Every one of my readers seem to love the books. I've gotten feedback from a wide range of people and ages," Moats concluded.

2010 FLORIDA REUNION

After two days of flooding downpours, Saturday, March 13 was sunny and breezy for the FHS Florida Reunion at Rich and Elsie 'Larson' Riggan's home, both from the class of '61. Thirty-two FHS alumni attended, along with assorted spouses and friends. The longest-distance travelers were Nancy 'Trammel' Niedziewicki '61 from California, and Elaine Morberg '61 from Wisconsin. Cries of "Hot corn here!" were heard all afternoon as Rich manned one grill, and Elsie's marinated roasts sizzled on another grill. A buffet including fresh fried chicken, hot dogs, roasts, mostaccoli, potato, pasta and fruit salads, marinated vegetables, and assorted fresh-baked desserts kept everyone returning for seconds and thirds and more! A few 'doggie bags' were seen leaving, too. Best of all was the camaraderie of old friends getting together and catching up on news and enjoying each other's company. Until next year !! Next year's Florida Reunion will be held in Sarasota on Saturday, March 12, 2011 at Sun-N-Fun resort in the Cypress Room. June 'Haist' Taylor '61 will again be hosting and will provide the details in a flyer. Mark your calendars! If you will be visiting Florida at that time, please let June know, and she will see that you receive a flyer. Her e-mail address is: jtridge2@aol.com.

the classroom by doing experiments involving moisture saturation and water runoff tests," said Nova Environmental consultant Steve Cretsinger.

A number of vendors have stepped up to provide $60,000 in labor and materials. That means there's no cost to the district. David Chawalibog, president of the Avrie Group, out of Milford, Michigan, said the project began back in 2006. He spoke with officials and recommended launching the green roof effort. "The kids will be learning about the environment. It's good for the administration, they don't have to pay for a new roof," Chwalibog concluded.

A prime benefit of the green roof is that there is no cost to the district. Other benefits include the ability to send clean oxygen into the atmosphere by filtering out pollutants and carbon monoxide, a reduction in heating and cooling costs, and storm water runoff reduction as the rain will water the greenery.

John Thompson, operations director, says, "The maintenance department has converted all of our cleaning materials and products to items that are certified as environmentally sound or have low toxicity."

Companies involved in the project include Barton Malow construction, J.D. Candler Roofing Co., Carlisle SynTec, Wakely and Associates and Nova Environmental.

Fraser's Gone Green

By Steve Urbaniak '77

The first green rooftop of its kind is found in Fraser. Students now have a living laboratory right on top of the maintenance building. The district has officially gone green. Not kelly green or forest green but environmentally green, that is.

As part of an experimental process, the roof is covered with soil planted over a waterproofed membrane. There is also vegetation there. This will provide hands-on educational means for students. There are real-world applications here for science aficionados.

"Officials say that this is the first green roof in any public K-12 school system in the state, and we have it right here in Fraser," said Superintendent Rick Repicky. "Students will see science in the making. It's our latest effort to become more environmentally conservative." All in all, it is a sound system for the green movement.

A few years ago the roof was removed, and a new one was designed to carry the weight of people walking on top. Global warming experiments can be conducted in a real-world application and there's an observation deck. "Students learn outside

FRASER SCHOOLS HISTORY By Steve Urbaniak '77		Fraser's Recent Retirees
Always interested in local history, this is what I've learned thus far about the Fraser schools.... The current Fraser Public Schools is the configuration of two school districts which consolidated in the mid 1940s, even though the southern district had been called Fraser Public Schools since 1929. School districts had formal names given to them denoting which township they were physically located in. The northern district (Cady school) was Clinton Township Fractional District No. 5. The district was fractional if any portion of it extended into a neighboring township (in this case, Sterling). The southern district (Fraser school) was formally known as Erin Township Fractional District No. 7 (it crossed over into Clinton Township and Warren Township). Fraser school was built in 1924 - the old Kennedy Junior High building. Prior to that (1888-1924), children went to the Canfield School (located on Canfield and Fraser Roads). Let me translate that into current names for you - Canfield Road was 13 Mile Rd., and Fraser Road was Utica Road. When the school burned down in	1924, they built Fraser school. Cady School was built in 1928 and was consolidated with Fraser in the mid 40's. This was after the district could not fund bus service to its students, who had to walk miles on the muddy/snowy roads in this wooded rural area. Since funding could not be procured and parents grew tired of shuttling their kids around, the district sought help from nearby Fraser, and they amicably agreed to merge. Prior to 1928, kids went to school at the Mulvey School, which was on the north side of Wolf Road, west of Garfield. (Wolf Road was 15 Mile Road.) The Mulvey School burned down in 1928. Many schools and churches burned down prior to the 1940's. Fire retardants have been used in construction since that time, lessening the number of fires. The Warren and Sterling portions of the district were given to Warren Consolidated and Utica, giving us the current district boundary of today.	Mike Arnold Bill Ashton Gordon Averbach Joan Balok Valerie Balik Laura Bassinotis Angie Beutel Sharon Bonacci Mike Borelli Ernie Borrelli Keith Bridges Sharon Brown Marie Browski Gail Bufalini Jerry Bufalini Louise Bulik Sally Burek Mary Caiozzo Mike Cassidy Sharon Conard Larry Cronin Rolland Courser Carol Davis Stu DeFauw Kathy DiMaria Thomas Fuhr Don George Rose Graham Don Grzenkowicz Leon Hart Donna Hathaway Fran Hegler Carole Hepper	Susan Hostnik Jim Jones Virginia Kozak Michelle Lockwood Antoinette Lumetta Bonnie (Zang) Mazza Jay Mesko Dave Moutrie Claudia Mullen John Northrup Lee O'Bryan Nancy O'Bryan Debbie Parrish Pat Peirce Milo Perreault Marty Pichla Millard Pickney Sam Rodriguez Cathy Rorai Mike Sand Grace Sellers George Singer Grace Staskowski Norma Stone Sharon Stoos Cliff Sunnarborg Nancy Thoenes Jack Treaster Margaret Triner Kathy Vechinski Lorraine Waeiss Connie Weidemann Rick Willis
